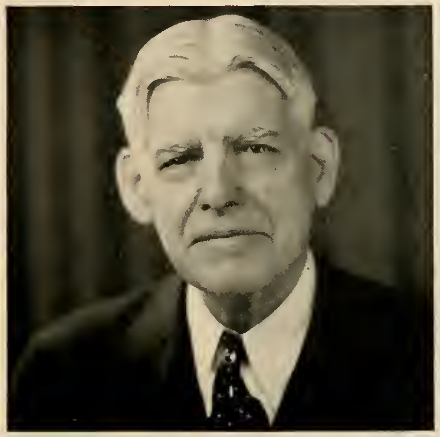
EDUCATION

The life and progress of the State of West Virginia is linked closely with its greatest educational institution --- West Virginia University. Because they are a part of each other, the Monticola Board of Editors have sponsored this---the All State Monticola---as a fitting gesture and as a reminder of the value of the State to the University and the University to the State.

DEDICATION



We co-dedicate this Monticola to
President
Robert Allen Armstrong:

Because, as an able scholar, inspiring teacher, sympathetic friend, kindly gentleman, he has long been a true Mountaineer.

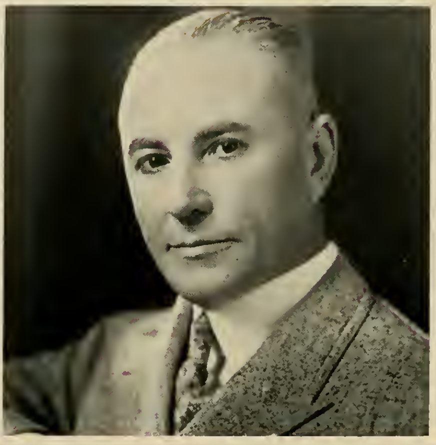
Because, he began his early teaching in the rural schools of West Virginia and has been a lifelong leader of light and learning in his native state, West Virginia.

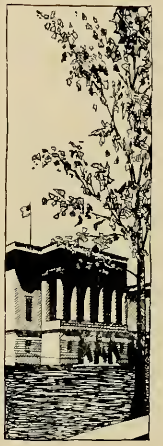
Because, his services to West Virginia as a distinguished educator, editor and author have classed him among the State's most outstanding citizens.

Because, of his distinguished career, kindly nature, he was called by the board of governors to further serve his Alma Mater in the highest office the University affords.

And because, as chaplain of the University, interpreter of the Scriptures and exemplar of its principles, his influence for good has been immeasurable.

DEDIC





We co-dedicate this Monticola to

Senator M. M. Neely:

Because he is a native of West Virginia;

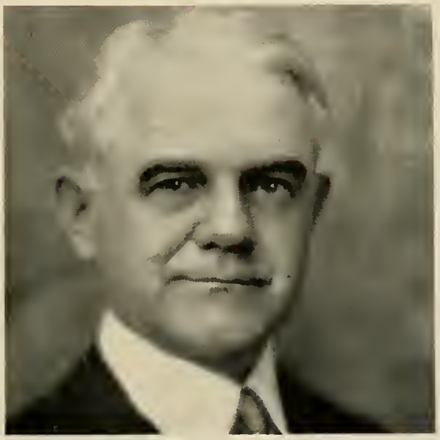
Because his phenomenal rise in the political world, from mayor of Fairmont in 1908 to the United States Senate in 1923, marks him as a man of ambition and ability;

Because he is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of West Virginia University;

Because, although he graduated from the University in 1902, as a true son of his Alma Mater, he has given generously of his time and energy in her interest even when most busy accomplishing his rise in governmental circles.

And because, as a distinguished senator and statesman, his services to his state and nation have not yet been completed.

ATION



We co-dedicate this Monticola to
Dr. John R. Turner:

Because, as a native of the state, he showed true Mountaineer courage in rapidly forging to the top in his chosen field of education;

Because, while Professor of Economics at Cornell University he achieved such eminence in that field that he was appointed chief economist and chairman of the advisory board of the United States Tariff Committee in 1923.

Because, while President of West Virginia University he was instrumental in inaugurating such improvements as the new University Library building, The University Demonstration High School building, additions to Woman's Hall, and in establishing a graduate school.

And because, as a distinguished educator, his services to his state and nation have not yet been completed.

A state is only as strong as the men who operate its industries, its politics, its educational institutions and agricultural enterprises.

West Virginia University is proud of its contribution in man power to the State of West Virginia. Alumni of the University are active leaders in state business, politics, and industry. It is the constant aim of the University to offer the type of technical and spiritual training that continues to fit its graduates to properly assume their places as leaders in the continued progress of the State of West Virginia.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

EDWARD GRANDISON SMITH, lawyer, a member of the Board of Governors, West Virginia University, since 1927, and president of the Board since its formation in the same year, has been a prominent leader in the affairs of the University.

Frank H. Babb has been a member of the Board since 1927 and has served as its vice-president since October, 1934. Mr. Babb, a resident of Keyser, is interested in banking, real estate, and insurance.

Arthur Burke Koontz, Charleston attorney, was appointed to the Board in 1927. Through his efforts, the University has secured long needed dormitory facilities. A Public Works Administration loan and grant in excess of $600,000 will provide handsome living space for 400 men, and an additional 150 girls.

Cleveland McSherry Seibert was appointed to the Board for a period of four years by Governor Conley in June, 1929, and was reappointed for a period of four years by Governor Kump in 1934. Mr. Seibert is the chairman of the Berkley county unit of West Virginia Relief Administration.

Harriet Louise French wa sappointed to the Board in 1933 by Governor H. G. Kump. Miss French is a member of the American Bar Association, West Virginia State Bar Association, and the Mercer County Bar Association.

Herbert Stephenson Boreman was appointed to the Board in 1933. His present occupations are: prosecuting attorney of Wood county; assistant United States attorney for the northern district of West Virginia; and an attorney-at-law in Parkersburg.

Wright Hugus, Wheeling attorney, has been a member of the Board since October, 1934. He is a member of the West Virginia and the American Bar Associations.

Charles Thompson Neff, Jr. has been secretary of the Board of Governors since 1927, and on July 1, 1934, he was appointed Financial Secretary of West Virginia University. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

UNIVERSITY STUDENT COUNCIL

STUDENT COUNCIL of West Virginia University is the governing organ of the student body. It consists of nine members, five of whom are selected from the campus at large, and four of whom are presidents of the four academic classes. The president of the Student Body, George Harris Healey, acts as its president in an ex officio capacity. Fiscal matters are referred to the Budget commission for review. This commission is an entirely separate organization which controls all student finances.

The present administration is the first to function under the new constitutional provision for raising council funds by direct levy on each member of the student body, rather than by profits realized through the sale of distinctive caps to male members of the Freshman class.

The council, this year maintained the membership of the University in the National Student Federation of America, and sent three delegates to its annual convention held in Boston this year.

The administration acted as hosts for the Student body during the convention of the West Virginia Federation of College Students, in which organization it also holds membership.

It has engaged itself actively in the functions and projects of "Greater West Virginia Week" sponsored through the efforts of the Do Something committee, a group of representative campus leaders. This week was held in May and was filled with representative campus functions. It opened with a formal address on May 11 at the Regimental parade and review by President Robert Armstrong, president of the University, and George Harris Healey, president of the Student Body. All classrooms, laboratories, and lectures were thrown open for visitation by the visiting parents and friends. Link day ceremonies were held on the circle with the four honoraries — Li-toon-awa, Rhododendron, Mortar Board, and Sphinx pledging their new members. The men's and women's glee lubs gave a joint recital, and in the evening a Greater West Virginia University Week dance was held.

On Saturday morning a parade was held through the down town streets in which all the honoraries and other campus organizations participated. A tea was held for all visitors in Moore Hall; athletic events; the May Festival and a dramatic production, by the University Players was held. On Sunday the churches held services and in the afternoon the various fraternal organizations held informal receptions. The interfraternity and intersorority sings were held on the Circle.

GEORGE HARRIS HEALEY
President

WOMAN'S STUDENT

EVERY WOMAN attending West Virginia University is a member of Womans' Student Government Association and it is the only organization for women that is all inclusive in its membership. It is the governing entity for men and women.

The council consists of Ethel Swing, president; Pauline Cunningham, first vice president; Mary Louise Jester, second vice president; Mary Louise Woodhull, senior woman representative; Virginia Crowell, junior woman representative; Gladys Lockert, sophomore woman representative; Virginia Johnson, secretary; Margaret Hasner, treasurer; and Eleanor Barnett, president of Woman's Hall as ex officio member.

This organization has one of the most systematic of mechanical set ups. Its executive council is the highest court, and holds weekly meetings. There are two judicial boards, one composed of the presidents of sorority houses and one of the houses in town. It is headed by the vice president of the executive council and meets every two weeks. The other judicial group is the Judiciary board of Woman's Hall and Woman's Hall Annex. This is composed of advisory board members of these houses.

W. S. G. A. began last spring to revise rules and worked over them until they were brought up to date. The most important occurrence that was brought about by this group was the new phone system in Woman's Hall. Much credit is due to Dean Ruth D. Noer and Miss Harriet French, of the Board of Governors. Several times in the past, attempts were made to get a new phone system to replace the two pay phones in the Hall, but it was not until women students themselves took up the issue that the request was granted.

This year, plans that W. S. G. A. had mapped out were somewhat delayed and thwarted by the necessity of devoting time to making the approved regulations applicable actually as well as theoretically to all rooming houses. Although much remains as yet to be accomplished in this direction, the Association feels that quite an advancement has been made.

Other activities of the group during the year included events of the permanent program. It was Student Government that sponsored Mothers' weekend and had complete charge of Mountaineer Night during Freshman week. It sponsored the reception which Freshman guides gave to Freshmen women during the first semester, and it also sponsored a concert given by the University Trio.

Elections are held every spring by only those women who have paid their dues to the group. Candidates are usually proposed by the Nominating Committee.

WITH the issuance of the 1935 Monticola, a new idea has been worked out, whereby the entire state is being represented throughout the book, both in pictures and in advertising. Thus the reason for the title of "All State Monticola". The aim being to tie up more closely the relation between the state and the school.

The procedure of the book has been run along the lines in which the events occur throughout the year, athletics being the more dominant. Other features that have been added are the sections for the orchestra, drama, glee clubs, and for the golf, tennis and rifle teams. The members of the complete freshman class appear as do the individual photographs of the sophomores. The snapshot sections, perhaps the largest in many years, cover the entire college year. They are informal and many were taken when the person or groups were not aware of the fact, thereby making them most interesting.

A NEW inovation has been introduced in the selecting of "Miss West Virginia". A committee chosen by the Monticola staff, consisting of representatives of the two political parties, and the non-fraternal group selected fifteen university women, prominent because of beauty and charm. From this group of fifteen, James Montgomery Flagg of New York selected the most beautiful to be officially declared "Miss West Virginia". The remaining most beautiful women constitute her seven princesses.

Realistic reminders of life at the fraternity and sorority houses, the exciting afternoons at the stadium, intramural sports, parties at Cheat, dancing, athletics, gaiety and fun, all mixed with the sobriety of professors and books . . . . participating in one wonderful experience that is not to be forgotten — That has been the aim of this Monticola.

ATHLETICS

∴ A HISTORY AND RECORD ∴

1919 SQUAD

WEST VIRGINIA'S first football game was played in 1891 when a team of untrained giants organized, and without expert coaching, took on the powerful Washington and Jefferson team. The result was a 71-0 lacing which so discouraged the boys that they did not bring up the matter of football again until 1893 when two games were played.

From 1895 until 1900 better days appeared for the infant Mountaineer sport as better athletes took up the game and a coach was obtained for the first time. An interesting angle of the game at that time was the fact that road trips were taken similar to the modern baseball trips, and series games were held with the same team on three or four successive days. This feat be deemed impossible by modern coaches.

The years that followed under coaches Mont McIntyre, Sol Metzger, Clarence (Doc) Spears, Ira Rodgers, Earl (Greasy) Neale, and now Charles (Trusty) Tallman have not all been successful but the teams have hit certain peaks like the immortal Princeton victory and the successful trip to the West coast that have brought national recognition and prominence. The names of the heroes of the various periods also stand out as a record of achievement and success in the face of difficulties.

RECORDS OF FAMOUS TEAMS

1895 Under the first regular coach of West Virginia football history, all of the six games were won this year except that with W. & J. "Hurry Up" Yost, "Dad" Krebbs, and "Bunk" Reynolds were among the players and Pitt (W. U. P.) was easy.

1903 The Mountaineers outscored their opponents 146 to 45 losing only to Ohio State in eight games. The Presidents of W. & J. were vanquished for the first time (both on the field and in the resulting fight afterwards) and the celebration lasted all night.

1905 Another possible undefeated season was marred as eight games were won and one, to Penn State, was lost. Buck Martin, Tom Lehay, and Mont McIntyre made history for West Virginia.

1916 With McIntyre as the new coach, five games were won, avenging several earlier defeats, and two were tied — Rutgers and Dartmouth. Two heartbreaking losses were sustaned — Navy, 12-7, and Pennsylvania, 3-0 — despite the fine work of "Rip" King and "Rat" Rodgers.

1919 Led by All-American Rodgers, the Mountaineers made the first big bid for national honors by trimming Princeton 25-0. It was Rodgers who opened the eyes of the football world to the possibilities of the forward pass, used with deadly effect in that game.

1922 Only a surprise tie with W. & L. stopped an undefeated year, and in a post-season game played in California on New Year's Day, Gonzago was defeated 21-13. The team scored 329 points in the 10 games to 34 for the opponents.

1924 Under the leadership of Fred Graham, eight games were won by decisive scores including victories over Colgate and W. & J. The loss was to Pitt. This year wound up the career of Coach Clarence (Doc) Spears.

1928 After an upset defeat by Davis-Elkins in the opening game, the 1928 Mountaineers turned in a fine season, being the last team to beat Pitt. Games were won from Fordham, Oklahoma, W. & J., and others. Clarence Keefer was the captain and Marshall (Sleepy) Glenn the offensive star.

THE 1934 SEASON

AN ALL-AMERICAN group of coaches greeted the Mountaineer football squad for the first time last fall when the annual pre-season clinic opened. A "New Deal" in gridiron fortunes had brought into power a new set of coaches.

At the head stood Charles (Trusty) Tallman, immortal West Virginia end, drafted from the post of Freshman mentor. A firm believer in the teaching of fundamentals, he also had the knack of instilling into the players a high degree of spirit and determination.

The assistants, Myron (Mike) Palm and Frank Anthony, were former All-Americans from Penn State and Southern California. Palm handled the backfield while Anthony was the line tutor.

Ira Errett Rodgers, the only holdover, acted as chief scout and as Junior Varsity coach. "Rodge" is admittedly one of the best scouts in the country and has been ranked with the best fullbacks of football history.

MOUNTAINEER FIELD

AS THE football teams of West Virginia's "Golden Era" began to attract larger crowds, authorities saw that better accommodations than the "splinter stadium" of the Old Athletic Field were needed for home games. Accordingly in 1924 Mountaineer Field was started in the natural ampitheater of Falling Run Hollow by the Foundation Company of New York

The structure was built at a cost of about $600,000, but during its construction it was necessary to relocate the Sunnyside Bridge and to build a submerged aquaduct for Falling Run underneath the turf of the playing field.

Of interest to note is the fact that the first season of football was played in Mountaineer Field before the stadium was completed. The largest crowd that ever watched a University home attraction assembled in 1924 while the curve part of the horseshoe was still under construction. Twenty-five thousand people saw the Mountaineers beat W. & J. 40-7.

WHEN Coach Tallman took up the coaching reins at West Virginia last fall, he faced a road obstructed by one of the hardest schedules in the country, but he inherited an array of veteran material that would gladden the heart of any mentor. Despite the fact that a new system was being installed, the players adapted themselves easily, and were only handicapped by the lack of reserves.

Co-Captain Herb Stewart heads the list of individual players chiefly because of his consistent work at the important center post. He saw more active service than any other member of the squad, covered his position well, and provided a great deal of the needed team spirit.

Co-Captain John Vargo, the workhorse of the squad, was the chief utility man. He was an integral part of the much-feared Mountaineer line, being particularly dangerous on defense. His graduation leaves no small hole to be filled.

GOODWIN

KYLE

STEWART

Art Swisher's competent work at guard earned him a captaincy during his junior year., and his fine playing also extended through his last season. Short and heavy set in build, his scant 165 pounds were more than enough to block a path for the ball carriers through a heavier enemy line.

George (Eck) Allen stepped into a Varsity berth as a sophomore quarterback and never relinquished it through years of tough sledding. A scoring threat whenever he was in the game, he managed to star in spite of 'special defenses' invented by the veritable "brain trust" of coaches that matched wits with West Virginia. During every one of his Varsity years, Eck played the game with zest that placed him on the list of gridiron greats.

THOMAS

Charles (Tod) Goodwin entered his final year of Collegiate football with an outstanding record as a defensive end. Continuing his fine work — and including an instructive lesson in punt-blocking — he rocketed into national prominence as All-American timber, but lost his great chance for recognition when an injury forced him out of the metropolitan tilt with Fordham. Nevertheless, Tod received considerable recognition, and was conspicious for his ability to back up his ample self-confidence by playing outstanding football.

John (Benny) Thomas was forced to fill a tough assignment at the fullback post. That he did it with dispatch is evidenced by the fact that he averaged three yards gain every time he carried the ball during the season. His short choppy stride gave him tremendous power, a necessary asset to a team more noted for defense than offense.

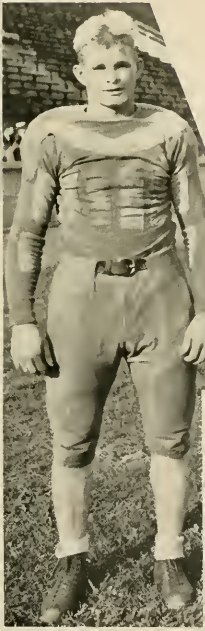
Lou Fidler, another great utility man who could and did play practically every position, gained most of his renown as a guard. Handicapped some during his Varsity career by injuries, he overcame the difficulties with an unbeatable fighting spirit.

Joe Johnston was the final senior member of the squad. A reserve linemna, he served but one year on the first squad, graduating from the Junior Varsity where he held the captaincy.

SWISHER

SLATE

Patsy Slate came to West Virginia via Potomac State with a reputation as a punter. A leg injury in his first Varsity game was quite a drawback, but he managed to shake the trouble off, and his ""coffin corner" kicks pulled the team out of many bad holes. In addition, he was better-than-average pass receiver.



ZALESKI

BARNA

Fred Wilson's great asset was his speed—a needed ability for a pass catching end. Edged out of a first string berth, he continued to be the Number One replacement and if necessary could move into the backfield to tote the ball. His peculiar manner of running made easy to identify as he streaked down the field for a long pass.

Jimmie Scott, the lightest regular on the squad, made up for his lack of size by speed and deception. With a little help from his mates in moving some of the bulky opposing linemen, Jimmie could scamper through the resulting broken field with deadly results. His ability to kick and pass also made him a capable substitute for every member of the backfield.

SCOTT

FIDLER

Joe Stydahar is one of the biggest reasons for the stability of the West Virginia line. Standing over 6-feet 4-inches in height and weighing more than 215 pounds he was also a great threat as a punt blocker, particularly after he overcame the difficulty of learning to charge low under the opponent. Joe was mentioned prominently on several All-American and All-Eastern selections and will be the main foundation for next year's line.

Sam Mawhinney paired with Stydahar at the tackles during the greatest part of the last campaign and is certain to hold down the same post in 1935. Tall and slender with a slim waist but driving shoulders, he is reminiscent of the "Golden Era" days of Beck and Davis. A quiet, but dependable player, Sam can easily be picked out on the field because of his peculiar shifting gait.

STYDAHAR

CROPP

Dick Heath, one of the fastest backs on the squad, came to the fore last year mainly because of his fine kicking. With two years of Varsity experience behind him, he will become a valuable man in the future, particularly in executing end sweeps where speed is essential for ball carrying and running experience.

ALLEN

Hosmer (Hoss) Cropp will be Coach Tallman's chief filler for a forward wall shattered by graduation. In the past he has been used at either guard or tackle position and his rangy style of playing makes him adaptable to both posts. Although he has been a member of the Varsity squad for two years, Hoss has had but one year of Varsity playing chalked on his record.

Joe Zaleski alternated at the fullback in 1934 and should handle the Varsity assignment next fall. A powerful line plunger, he runs with the high knee action that makes him hard to tackle. When it comes to the final few yards to the goal line, hotly contested over every inch, Joe has the necessary drive to crash through.

Angelo Onder's specialty is place kicking but he was a tough end for any team to flank last season. He was another of the giant linemen, and his 192 pounds were handled to good advantage.

Jack Gocke heads the sophomore talent by dint of his excellent passing and kicking. A real triple threat man, he kept the Mountaineers in more than one ball game with long, high punts out of the danger zone, and equally long passes that usually resulted in scores.

Herbert (Babe) Barna was the receiving end of most of the red-headed Gocke's passes, and the two boys were generally considered a single unit. Babe was a trifle weak on defensive play, but long practice sessions have aided that and two more seasons of competition should provide the opportunity for a great record.

Bob Kyle, another dependable sophomore, showed such promise during his first Varsity year that he began to draw starting assignments before the season was half over and played out the year at the blocking quarterback position.

Carl Hall did a fine job as a reserve guard last year and will be one of the few experienced linement who will return. Handicapped early in the season by a broken nose, he was able to overcome the difficulty by the use of a special protective headgear, and saw service in nearly every game.

Gene Hester was faced with the prospect of having to win his position from an All-American candidate, Tod Goodwin, but he gave a good account of himself. A powerful pair of arms and shoulders help him in boxing opposite tackles and make him a hard man to take out of any play.

Tony Forte, returning to the University after a considerable absence, proved himself a capable reserve lineman. A trifle slow in pulling out of position, he made up for that by using the advantage of his weight.

Dick Frantz saw little actual Varsity service last fall because he was substitute for Herb Stewart whose inspired play kept him in action through the entire season.

MAWHINNEY ONDER POILEK

SCHIMMEL

Paul (Buck) Schimmel found an array of veteran linemen that were too strong to break through for a starting job in his sophomore year, but he managed to give a good account of himself as substitute tackle. With the necessary weight to carry him through a bruising campaign, Buck is set to make the first team next season.

TEBAY, Manager

JOHNSTON

MAYES

John (Squint) Phares has the possibilities to make him one of the Mountaineer immortals. He played only a few minutes of the first game last fall, but he has the elusiveness and change-of-pace that has characterized the All-America "climax runners."

Maurice Mayes also has another year of Varsity competition and will bolster the line reserves next year. He had little opportunity to show his wares in the last campaign, but acquitted himself with honors.

Joe Poilek suffered a leg injury during the opening week of his sophomore year and was unable to see action, but he fitted into the blocking back position like a well oiled cog-wheel last fall, alternating with another first year man, Bob Kyle.

THE ❖ FIGHTING ❖ MOUNTAINEERS

FIGHT! FIGHT!!

WEST VIRGINIA—19 WESLEYAN—0

On the hottest game day ever encountered by a West Virginia football team, the Mountaineers set out to test the "New Deal" in coaching. Tod Goodwin started the fireworks by blocking Barnum's punt which was recovered for a touchdown by Onder. With Jimmy Scott and Benny Thomas doing most of the ball carrying, the team gained 204 yards from scrimmage while Scott and Joe Zaleski made the remaining two scores and Onder kicked the lone extra point.

WEST VIRGINIA—7 DUQUESNE—0

Registering a minor upset, the Talmanites gained revenge for last year's 3-0 defeat by Duquense, and surprised with a strong pass defense. Once again a blocked kick figured in the scoring when Joe Stydahar, crashing through the line, caught the punt on his chest and galloped the remaining 10 yards to score. The W. V. U. line was outstanding with Goodwin and Herb Stewart featuring and the smooth working team from the hills easily outplayed and outsmarted the Dukes.

WEST VIRGINIA—6 PITT—26

For the first time in six years, a West Virginia team scored on Pitt, and although decisively beaten, managed to come out of the game with a good share of the honors. The Pennsylvania team counted twice in the first half, but West Virginia took command in the third period with a dangerous attack, sending Eck Allen through the line to score. Two tough penalities and the collapse of the aerial attack at a critical point spelled disaster for a rally that had gotten to the point of scaring the Panthers.

WEST VIRGINIA—12 W. & L.—0

For the third time, a blocked punt brought a score. This time Goodwin and Stydahar collaborated while Hester covered the ball. The remaining touchdown was garnered on a long pass from Allen to Patsy Slate. The line played masterful ball, holding the Generals to a net gain of 12 yards, but the entire game was rather listless and the Gold and Blue team missed many golden opportunities to score, with pass receivers being particularly guilty.

WEST VIRGINIA—13 TEMPLE—28

After battling on even terms with the Owls through the first half, the West Virginians went to pieces for a short interval, but the time was long enough for Temple to score four times, all on lightning-like thrusts. The Mountaineers struck back when Stydahar blocked another punt and Goodwin scored, but were hopelessly beaten and after another touchdown had been made on a pass from Scott to Slate, the game ended, stopping a final goalward move.

IN REVIEW

WEST VIRGINIA—12 DAVIS-ELKINS—7

A series of "breaks" accounted for the scoring in this game, played in a howling gale. Pouncing on a first-minute enemy fumble, West Virginia sent Allen across the payoff stripe, but the Senators scored after a short kick and took the lead 7-6. In retaliation, the Mountaineers also smothered a kick and started goalward, and when Zaleski fumbled after plunging across from the one foot line, Joe Poilek covered the loose ball for the deciding points.

W. V. U.—7 OHIO UNIVERSITY—2

In another example of listless football, the Mountaineers allowed themselves to be outplayed during the first part of the game. It took a blocked kick, resulting in an Ohio safety, to cause the team to wake up for a minute. Thomas circled left end for 10 yards and Slate twisted off tackle for 26 more. Allen scampered through the same hole unmolested for the remaining distance and the team lapsed back into a coma, satisfied after having traveled 60 yards for a touchdown in three plays.

WEST VIRGINIA—20 FORDHAM—27

In a ding-dong battle in which the advantage continually changed from team to team, the Gold and Blue lost its great chance for national recognition, falling before the Fordham Ram. Two star backs, injected for only a short time in the second half, turned the trick. Fullbacks Thomas and Zaleski did all of West Virginia's scoring, but a series of accurate passes accounted for considerable of the potency of the attack, and brought forth the Fordham "prima donna" backs.

W. V. U.—7 GEORGE WASHINGTON—10

A battle of giant lines stood out in this game, the Colonials winning by a field goal from the toe of tackle Harry Deming. Pass interceptions and fumbles were frequent with both teams. After an early G-W touchdown, West Virginia struck back, tying the score on a pass from Gocke to Slate. Here the passing attack bogged down, setting the scene for Deming's victory boot. Despite the defeat, West Virginia played the most consistent ball of the entire season.

WEST VIRGINIA—14 W. & J.—12

Playing in the huge Municipal Auditorium in Atlantic City, West Virginia ended a better-than-average season by defeating a traditional rival. As usual, the team had to be scored on before it could function. Then Benny Thomas, playing his final game of inter-collegiate football with nine other seniors, pushed across the two touchdowns. Eck Allen made matters more secure by converting the first (and only) point after touchdown he had ever tried in a long and colorful career.

VARSITY SQUAD

DESPITE the fact that 10 men who played regularly in 1934 will be missing when Coach Tallman assembles his men for drills next fall, a good assortment of veteran material will be available. Twenty-one holdovers will remain in addition to good replacements from the strong freshman and junior varsity squads.

Angelo Onder is a first string end with two years of experience behind him, but the other flank will be contested between Gene Hester, Babe Barna, and Joe Johnston. Joe Stydahar and Sam Mawhinney, regular tackles, are practically assured of first team jobs, with reserve strength coming from Hoss Cropp and Buck Schimmel, with Mayes and Gibson available for use at tackle or guard.

With both regular guards gone, Carl Hall, who saw considerable service last season, will probably team with Tony Forte or Bill Kell, and since Dick Frantz is the only center with Varsity experience, the reserves for the pivot post must come from freshman ranks.

In the backfield, six men will be on hand for duty. Joe Zaleski and Bob Kyle alternated at fullback last year and will be ready to again take up the task. Jack Gocke and Dick Heath did most of the punting and the former was the forward passing threat, while Joe Poilek, an experienced blocking back, and Squint Phares, flashy runner and passer, complete the list.

FRESHMAN SQUAD

"THE MOST promising crop of freshman football players to enter West Virginia University in several years," was the general opinion of most experts at the beginning of the plebe season and the results seem to have borne out the contention. Victories were earned over Duquesne, Carnegie Tech, and Massanutten Academy, and only a fluke enabled the Pitt freshmen to gain a 14-14 tie.

A smart, tricky backfield was the biggest asset of the Little Mountaineers, and a full supply of equally capable replacements made matters easier for Coach Marshall (Sleepy) Glenn. A trio of fast, elusive "climax runners" — Dave Isaac, Glenn Carder, and Geno Onder — were used interchangeable at the quarterback as the basis of the backfield. At the halfback posts were alternated Kelly Moan, the California Catapult, Leo Fizer, Jimmy Wolverton, Fred Nebera, Leo Ingraham, John Zelina, and others while Tom (Burley) Kincaid did most of the fullbacking.

The 1934 freshman line should be given special notice for it is this bunch of boys who must fill the shoes of the six senior linemen who graduate in June. The line positions were handled by Ira (Trump) Adams and Frank Huffman, giant ends; Oley Hendricks, rangy center; Bob Johnson and Bob Neilson, two more California huskies; Ashby Dickerson and Fred Buskirk, 200-pound tackles; Bill Wendell and Dave Volkin, rugged guards, and several fine substitutes including, Brown, Eller, Biebel, Goshorn, Foley, Hodges, Jamison, Littlepage, McCue, Milam, Minear, Morton, Moses, and Painter.

One feature of the campaign of the Glennmen was the brilliant brand of offensive football displayed. Tricky cutbacks, strong end sweeps, accurate passes, and dazzling laterals combined to baffle the opposition and keep the spectators in suspense. A strong defense also added to the credit of the team.

As is customary in first year machines, certain tactical blunders in field generalship cropped out at times, but the players made up for that in every case by flashing counter attacks that nearly always resulted in scores.

CHEER LEADERS

A GREAT deal of the encouragement necessary for the success of any college athletic team must come from the student body of the school and West Virginia has shown this by developing more school spirit this season than at any time in recent years with a corresponding increase in the calibre of the teams.

Considerable credit for the change must be extended to Head Cheerleader Dave Tucker who has obtained fine results from the cheering squad and kept his men active through the entire year instead of concentrating on football alone. Dave is a tireless worker with an abundance of loyalty and a strong reserve of effervescent energy that keeps him busy every minute thinking of new ways to help his school.

The assistant cheer leaders, John Cook, James Byrum, Roy Samms, Joe Hodson, and Robert Rentz, have demonstrated their willingness to put forth ceaseless effort by the long hours of practice sessions and the time spent planning special demonstrations.

Several display "stunts" were carried out by the cheering squad during the football season which helped to buck up lagging school spirit and brought many favorable comments from game visitors. These included the color cheering at the Pitt game, the colored streamers at the George Washington game, and the model football that released colored balloons at the Davis-Elkins game.

Members of the squad were "on duty" at the out-of-town games with Duquesne at Pittsburgh, Washington and Lee at Charleston and Ohio University at Parkersburg.

BASKETBALL

BASKETBALL

A HISTORY AND RECORD

IN 1904 a group of football players decided that it was a long time between football and baseball at West Virginia University so the first basketball team was organized. The team scheduled mostly independent teams and was able to win only six games out of the 15, but the highlights of the year were the 80-1 victory over Waynesburg, and the 40-9 walloping administered to Pitt.

As the organizers of the team graduated, interest lagged, and when the cagers could win but three games in 1908, the sport was discontinued for six years, bobbing up again in 1915 when a .500 per cent average was garnered in 20 contests. The majority of the games were still played with independent squads.

Indifferent success was enjoyed until 1924 when only two games were lost — the closest W. V. U. ever came to an undefeated season in basketball.

When Francis Stadsvold retired from coaching at the end of the 1932-33 season, his greatest pupil, Marshall (Little Sleepy) Glenn, took up the reins and instigated a new system of playing that brought two of the most successful years in the history of the sport. Basketball began to regain some of its lost prestige in the eyes of the fans and in the interest of the student body.

RECORDS OF FAMOUS TEAMS

1904 The first basketball team was successful in winning four out of five games with independent teams but could only gain victories in two intercollegiate contests. Lack of playing space and poor practicing facilities were responsible.

1916 Independent teams had disappeared from the schedule by this time but the Mountaineers won 11 games out of 18, and turned in wins over Ohio, W. & J., Wesleyan, Fairmont, and smaller schools.

1919 The team was unable to do better than a 50-50 split for the season's record, but it beat Pitt in one game and was nosed out by W. & J. on two occasions by one-point margins. Close games were also lost to Cornell, Syracuse, and Colgate.

1921 Pitt was again beaten in one game this year and revenge was gained at the expense of the Presidents, but a disastrous Eastern trip again brought losses at the hands of the same teams as the years before.

1924 The most successful year from the standpoint of victories came this year when two victories over Pitt were included. Only surprise road losses to Kentucky and W. & J. marred a perfect record while 14 games were won.

1928 Thirteen games were won in 1928 but since a bigger schedule was played than in former years, seven were lost. The most exciting games were the W. & L. 44-42 victory, and the W. & J. 29-28 loss.

1929 A string of seven straight victories was run up by the Mountaineers before Geneva applied the brakes but the Gold and Blue rung up 15 out of 22 in the win column. The Eastern jaunt again made trouble.

1934 West Virginia's rocket from the conference cellar to second place was the surprise of 1934 and only a tough early-season loss to Carnegie Tech was the cause of the title staying with Pitt.

THE 1934 SEASON

THE RETURN of Marshall (Sleepy) Glenn to coach basketball at his Alma Mater, but a few short years behind him, signaled a renaissance for the faltering sport. New, young ideas and fighting blood kindled fresh spirit, and a radically different style of play soon began to bear fruit.

With the new type of game came the new type of basketball player — the cage specialist — and ex-football players, weary from an arduous campaign, were no longer required to bear also the big brunt of the basketball season. This departure has resulted in the speeding up of the game.

Sleepy has been helped through the past two years by Ira Errett Rodgers who has acted as Freshman coach. The freshmen are used frequently in scrimmages against the varsity where they learn the new style of play — so well in fact that two ex-freshmen stepped directly into varsity positions this year.

VARSITY SQUAD

A VETERAN squad was on hand to open practice this year, but two sophomores showed the stuff to oust some of their more experienced rivals and earn starting assignments. The two players, Jack Gocke and John (Squint) Phares were outstanding in nearly every game, but the success of the 1935 edition of the Mountaineers was chiefly due to the manner in which the machine worked as a single unit.

Around the giant Joe Stydahar worked the tricky pivot plays and lightning-like offensive thrusts that carried the team to a play-off for the conference championship, and almost to the throne of champion. Albie Colebank was the steadying influence who pulled the team through many tight spots with his timely shooting and cool head, while Andy Mestrovic, master of slight-of-hand control of the ball and fancy floor work in the execution of plays, was the final member of the first team.

Lacking some in experience, but not in fight, were the members of the reserve brigade. Three seniors toiled with this outfit — Fred Wilson, forward; Lew Fidler, and George Cubbon, guards — with little of the glory and a lot of work. Gene Hester alternated at center and guard as did Ken Randolph, while Bill Simpson stepped into the breach caused by the illness of Colebank, and Babe Barna relieved Stydahar on many occasions.

THE 1935 freshman basketball team was unable to live up to the remarkable record of victories of its immediate predecessor, but it turned in a very creditable showing of eight out of thirteen won, and lost three of the five games dropped at the very end of the season when injuries had handicapped the men.

Leo Fizer and Don (Bo) Meranda were the workhorses of the squad, and both turned in fine scoring records. Clyde Cox and Syd Marcus did great work as guards while managing to ring up a number of scores on their own hook, and the fifth position alternated between "Joe" Brown and Glenn Carder. Jimmy Wolverton, Johnny McCue. and others made up the reserve strength.

Pitt and W. & J. each took a pair of games from the plebes, but the only other contest was to Duquesne in a return engagement at Pittsburgh. The remainder of the schedule consisted mostly of games with independent teams, all of which added to the freshman victory column.

Parsons-Souders, strong Clarksburg quint, was beaten twice, and the Owens-Illinois glassworkers were downed at Fairmont 44-30. Two leaders in Morgantown independent circles — Johnson's and St. Francis — were easy victims, while the Rowlesburg Collegians were taken into camp in the opener, and the Kingwood Bell Hops fell before the Little Mountaineers, 45-23.

BOXING

FULL CREDIT for the spectacular rocketing of boxing into the ranks of contenders for the national championship must be handed to Eddie Vacheresse, youthful mentor of the six-year old sport. Eddie took the first informal team to Penn State in 1929 and lost 6-2, with the only two experienced men — Stunkard and Krebs — winning the two points. From that start has sprung the sensational line of fighters that have won the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference championship for three consecutive years, and have fought on even terms with the best in the country.

Athletic officials are expected to branch out into broader fields in arranging a schedule next year since the championship is to be determined upon the results of the annual tournament.

The inspiration of Captain Pete Puglia, 115-pound champion, in continually giving the team a certain point lead at the start had much to do with its success. Pete was undefeated throughout his varsity career.

A GOOD BATTLE WILL ALWAYS BE FOUND

THE THIRD successive Eastern Intercollegiate Conference Team Championship and five out of the seven individual crowns was the record pounded out by the popular Mountaineer boxing team this year under the guidance of Coach Eddie Vacheressee and Captain Pete Puglia. The boxers gained seven duel meet victories, and were inched out of a chance at the National championship when Wisconsin pounded out a 6-2 win in the season's finale.

The campaign opened with only three Varsity lettermen in the fold — Puglia, Johnny Gallo, and Joe Zaleski — but the big surprise turned out to be the unusual showing of sophomores Denver (Red) Welch, Mike Vacheresse, Oscar Ferrari, and Eddie Salerno.

In the inaugural at Lewisburg, Pa., Bucknell was easily vanquished, 5-2, and the fans became eager for the first home appearance of the team, but schedule arguments postponed the initial local tilt for several weeks. Finally, a weak Duquesne team was encountered and beaten 7-0.

A real test of the strength of the Mountaineers came when the Western Maryland sluggers, defending champions of the rival Eastern League, were met and conquered 5-3 at Cumberland, Md. Since freshmen eligibility rules were not in force, a heavyweight scrap was added to the program with Ashby Dickerson fighting in that class, and Sam Littlepage, another first year man, was shifted into the 165-pound division.

Against Temple, in the following match, another 7-0 shut-out was achieved, and Carnegie Tech fared little better, winning only one out of seven. The Washington and Jefferson scrappers put up a better battle before losing 5-3, but Pitt was beaten easily 7-0.

Of the five Mountaineers who came through the ournament to win individual titles, only two will graduate: Captain Puglia, who has captured three consecutive individual crowns, and Gallo, winner for two years. Zaleski, a junior, and Welch and Ferrari, sophomores, were the other Gold and Blue winners and they will form the foundation of next year's team.

DICKERSON

CAPTAIN PETE PUGLIA, 115 pounds, undefeated throughout his sparkling career, was considered the best bantam weight in the collegiate boxing world. His footwork was superb and his punch dangerous despite his low weight class. Pete held the Intercollegiate Conference championship for three consecutive years.

Denver (Red) Welch, 125 pounds, gained a conference title this year as a sophomore. One of the best prospects to be developed for some time, he possessed an unusual asset for a southpaw — a strong right hand. Several years experience as an amateur scrapper gave him the necessary confidence for success.

Matthew (Mike) Vacheresse, 135 pounds, stepped into the shoes vacated by Captain Bill Neely. This was Mike's first year on the squad, but he upheld the record of his predecessor, particularly in the art of boxing skill and clever defensive tactics.

ZALESKI

LITTLEPAGE

FERRARI

WELCH

Oscar Ferrari, 145 pounds, was another first year man who hauled down a conference championship. With an extra long reach he was able to concentrate on an effective left jab that won him many points.

Eddie Salerno, 155 pounds, was the knockout artist of the team. A fighter rather than a boxer, he won most of his bouts by letting loose the much feared "sleep producer." This was also his initial year of competition.

Johnny Gallo, 165 pounds, is rated by Coach Vachereese as the greatest of Mountaineer middleweights. He won the conference championship in 1934 in that weight and moved up a class to win the 165 pound class this year. As he graduates this year, Johnny's certain scoring points will be greatly missed, as will his unfailing smile and good humor.

Joe Zaleski, 175 pounds, is West Virginia's fifth and last champion. Swinging from his heels, Joe packs a deadly punch in either hand and has greatly increased the effectiveness of his wallops by shortening his punches. Joe combines slugging ability with a great fighting heart.

EAGLE

A DIFFICULT situation faced Albert (Whitey) Gwynne, the youngest coach of a major sport, when he began practice for the wrestling season. With only two lettermen on hand, and a mere handful of experienced reserves available, a heavy schedule had to be bucked. In addition, the interest of the fans had lagged because of lack of action in collegiate wrestling, and because of the increasing popularity of other winter sports.

Under the capable leadership of Captain Dick Chittum, the team began to stage more colorful bouts, and a fair record was compiled, considering all handicaps. Coach Gwynne was assisted by Jerry (Terrible Tiger) Nyhan, who helped with the Varsity men, and tutored the freshmen grapplers, several of which will move to varsity berths next year.

Increased interest in wrestling on the part of athletes during 1935 saved the sport from being discontinued or placed on an informal basis.

THE LACK of veteran material necessitated considerable shifting about in the various weight classes but the changes only served to give the grapplers more experience for a team that should be greatly improved next season. Good reenforcements are expected to come from the ranks of the freshman squad which produced several outstanding candidates, although the team had a rather disastrous season as a whole despite the valiant efforts of Coach Jerry Nyhan.

The Varsity season resulted in a better record than was expected as five matches were won and three lost. Pitt and Temple were bested — 22 to 6, and 22 to 8, respectively — while two matches were taken from Waynesburg, 21-13 and 24-8, and W. & J. fell, also, by the score of 24-8. Two "Big Ten Conference" teams proved to be too experienced for the Gwynnemen. Ohio State administered the worst defeat, 33-3, and Michigan won 22-8, while Franklin & Marshall tripped the Varsity 26-6 in a road match by counting rolling falls.

Experienced men will be available in nearly every class next year, and will be forced to battle for their jobs with at least four crack ex-freshmen in addition to the numerous Varsity reserves who will be anxious to break into the starting lineup.

RIFLE TEAM

THE Mountaineer Rifle team during the past year has experienced a most successful season. The West Virginia riflers met many of the leading college teams of the country in shoulder-to-shoulder matches as well as telegraphic matches.

The team tied with Cornell University in the Intercollegiate League matches which are sponsored by the National Rifle association every year. Carnegie Tech won first place, barely edging out West Virginia by one point. In this match Dwight Cruikshank was the individual high scorer.

Among the outstanding team members were Joseph Ritter, Francis Swint, Dwight Cruikshank, Joseph Pomykota, William Patten, Guy Leanord, Bob Glass and Gordon Kyle.

Joseph Ritter was captain of the 1934-35 team. Lieut. Arthur Swisher and Lieut. Oliver Rinehart were the coaches; Robert Merricks was the manager.

The freshman team met with as much success as the varsity. A year's summary of the Freshman riflers saw John Lester, "Ted" Ruck, Robert McGlothlin, James Williamson, and Wylie Mendel place in the first five positions. The annual R. O. T. C. medal was awarded to Lester who held the highest ranking of the season.

TRACK

TRACK

A HISTORY AND RECORD

1923 SQUAD

AUTHENTIC records regarding the early history of track at West Virginia University are very inadequate, but the sport was established on a formal intercollegiate basis about 1898. Previous to this time, meets had been held between different fraternities and between classes, but no formal competition was sanctioned.

Early teams were usually smaller than the modern squads and each man was compelled to compete in numerous events, but the events were very similar to those run off today. The 100 yard dash, high jump, vault, broad jump, hammer throw, shot put, and sometimes the marathon were scheduled, and the predominence of field events came from the large number of football men who competed.

As interest in the sport increased, a demand for better training quarters increased, but the condition was not completely remedied until the completion of the stadium when the trackmen deserted Commencement Hall basement and the Old Athletic Field for the more spacious locker rooms and better track of Mountaineer Field.

West Virginia track has been divided into definite periods as different coaches have taken charge. The present mentor, Art Smith, has been perhaps the most successful and has turned out consistently good teams despite frequent absences of strong supporting material. Competition has not been confined to this immediate district, but the schedules have included many victims from the East and Middle West that added to the prestige of the school and coach.

RECORD OF FAMOUS TEAMS

1898 Under the impetus of such Mountaineer athletes as Charley McWhorter, Lou Yeager, "Dad" Krebs, Cole, and Maynard, West Virginia sponsored its first formal intercollegiate track team. The season had to be squeezed in, however, between the baseball games.

1905 Only one meet was held this year because of the lack of training facilities, but the team took the measure of Marshall. Gibson, Fancher, Bachman, and Smith contributed most of the points in the single meet.

1910 After a short period in which interest in track died down here, a rebirth of activity occurred and a better team resulted. The team was built around Carl Yount, Lee Morris, Ernie Conaway, and Charley Baker.

1914 The Mountaineer trackmen were still without adequate training quarters but won the only two dual meets held and the State championship. Wesleyan, Morris-Harvey, Marshall, Salem, and Davis-Elkins were beaten in the State meet.

1916 Again the Mountaineers ran away with the State meet against nearly all of the West Virginia schools, and won two dual meets. Seven State records were broken by Mountaineer stars in the championship event.

1921 Nate Cartmell took over the coaching reins during this period and a new era of track history opened up. Better training methods and the installation of specialization of athletes on certain events aided the upswing.

1928 Coach Art Smith's proteges won two out of three meets in 1928 and captured the Big Four title by a fine showing of all around team strength. John Stender, Vantal Waggoner, Fred Riley, and Clarence Keefer were the individual stars.

1931 The feature meet of this season was the heart-breaking one point defeat of the Mountaineers at the hands of Army, 63½ to 62½. The outstanding athletes were Runt Calloway, Gordon Fraser, and Bill Miller, nationally-famous hammer thrower.

WHEREVER A WEST VIRGINIA TEAM IS IN ACTION

THE 1934 SEASON

THROUGH the vast emptiness of Mountaineer Field booms a stentorian voice roaring commands or warnings and numerous ambitious track candidates put on a fresh burst of speed or power that contributes to the making of another West Virginia track team. The owner of the generous voice will be found to be Coach Art Smith, who is responsible for the growth of the spring sport at the University.

Author, teacher, and trainer, Art Smith seems to have the knack of finding hidden talent in a boy and training it to the point of perfection in track and field events. Despite lack of material, he shows up consistently with good teams.

One of Art's star pupils is Captain Jimmy Woodford, the Philippi Flyer. Jimmy's short legs carry him over the cinders with a surprising amount of speed, and he can be counted on for meet points in the sprints in addition to his fine work on relay teams.

A HISTORY AND RECORD

1923 SQUAD

THE FIRST baseball was played at the University in 1894 when a nine game schedule was played. Records are very incomplete, but the schedule contained, for the most part, engagements with independent teams and the high spot of the season was a 37-4 victory over Rivesville Athletic Club.

Early teams were composed generally of farmer boys who really knew how to play baseball and the sport prospered, gaining the greatest part of the support from the student body and townspeople, until the team was playing schedules that included Yale and strong opponents on the eastern seaboard, and Ohio State, Illinois, and Notre Dame in the middle west. The halcyon days of baseball were before the World War and the following decade produced lean years until 1928.

The baseball stars that shot across the horizon included such famous Mountaineers as Charley McWhorter, Jack Kenna, Tom Gorby, Charley Hickman, Fulton Woods, Ira Rodgers, Apie Weik, Steve and Joe Harrick, Homer Martin, Roy (Legs) Hawley, the ill-fated Ike Mowery, Eddie Baker, and others.

RECORD OF FAMOUS TEAMS

1902 The first year that saw the breaking away from a schedule made up mostly of independent opponents also saw the best season record in early history. Victories over Navy, W. & J., and Ohio State (four games) were outstanding.

1905 A return to the scheduling of some independent teams was made this year but 12 games were won. Five were lost, and one tussle, with Ohio Wesleyan, was finally called on account of darkness after neither team could break a 9-9 deadlock.

1908 With a bruising schedule of 29 games, the Mountaineers turned in an average of 10 runs per game, slugging out 212 scores, and holding the opposition to 63 runs. The team won 20 games straight before being tripped up by the Pitt Collegians.

1910 Notable games were won during this season from Notre Dame, Navy, Marshall, and Georgetown. The Wheeling Professionals, and Bucknell each proved too strong and captured two tilts apiece from West Virginia — the only ones lost.

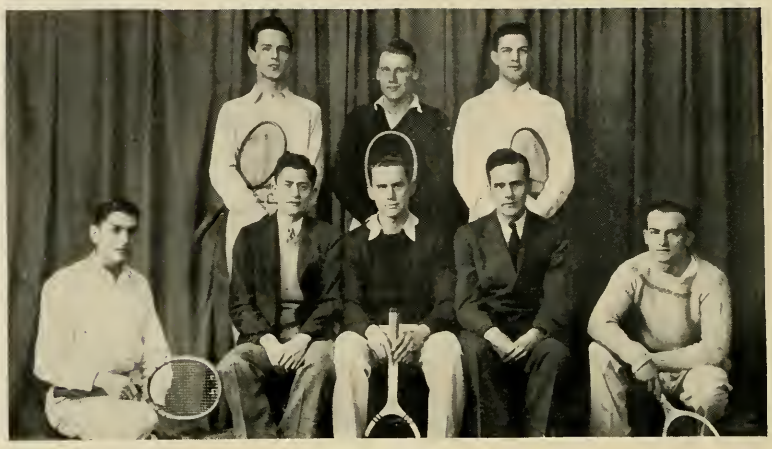
1913 Another 12-4 record was achieved in 1913 by a strong offensive team. Single tilts were lost to Wesleyan, Maryland, W. & L., and Pitt, with the last two games being by one-point margins, 7-6, and 3-2.

1916 Victories over Penn State, Marshall, Westminster, and Marietta were the highlights of this campaign. Another strong offensive team pounded out an average of eight runs each game in spite of shutouts administered by Georgetown, and Marshall in a return game.

1918 The best season in West Virginia baseball history, from the standpoint of victories and defeats, was registered in 1918. Only three games were dropped, on the Eastern trip, and one of those — the Army tussle — was avenged.

1928 With a slightly lighter schedule than in the olden days, the Mountaineers fared better this year. Two games were played with opponents in the Middle-Atlantic professional league, one of which was lost to Clarksburg, and the other won from Fairmont.

TENNIS



ONLY THREE men graduated from the tennis team that rang up a record of 66 2/3 per cent out of six matches in 1934, and the prospects, consequently, appear very good for 1935. Better weather is also predicted which will eliminate the rain jinx that washed out numerous other matches scheduled for last year.

Captain Eddie Owen will lead this year's squad which will be made up of Ken Thorn, Bill Schaeffer, Huck Ruble, Ches Young, Bill Carlin, Moe Ragland, Bill Meredith, and possibly several other men from the reserves. A number of freshmen racqueteers have also shown considerable promise.

Matches were played with Temple, Pitt, Duquesne, W. & J., Wesleyan, and the Clarksburg Tennis Club last year. The tentative schedule for 1935 called for engagements with Fairmont, Wesleyan, Duquesne ,Georgetown, Davis-Elkins, Dickinson, Gettysburg, Temple, W. & J., and the Clarksburg group. Other matches may be added before the end of the season.

GOLF

A RATHER late start was made this year in arranging a schedule but the outlook was bright for a good season with the return of several able veterans. Captain Bobby Lowe graduated last June and Patsy Martino did not return to school, but Captain-elect Sam Aspinall, Kirk Jackson, Matthew (Mike) Vacheresse, Charley Manning and Joe Grow have all had experience. The squad will be fortified by Jimmie Loar and several other new men.

After splitting a preliminary series with teams from the Clarksburg and Fairmont Country Clubs last year, the team got off to a bad start by dropping matches to Pitt, 4-3, and W. & J., 5-4. Early in May the divoteers braced up, however, and whitewashed Davis-Elkins and Duquesne, both 6-0, but were in turn blanked upon the return engagement with Pitt. The season ended with a 3½-2½ victory over W. & J. after several other matches had been cancelled because of examinations.

Captain Aspinall, who also serves as coach, has planned a more pretentious season for 1935 and will encounter two additional club teams, Kingwood and Morgantown, in preparation for the collegiate matches. Several Mountaineer entries are also expected to compete in the annual district intercollegiate tournament at Pittsburgh in June.

Home matches will be played on the course of Morgantown Country Club where the West Virginia players have been practicing since early in March.

INTRAMURALS

INTRAMURAL

WHEN the Department of Physical Education was established in September of 1928, a branch of intramural athletics was added. Under the supervision of Harry L. Samuels this department has grown each succeeding year until now, in its sixth year, this branch of athletics is very popular among fraternity and non-fraternity men.

Before the establishment of the intramural program fraternities held tournaments in basketball, track, baseball and horseshoes, on a strict elimination basis under the supervision of the interfraternity council. This competition was closed to all fraternities outside the council and consequently all non-fraternity men were excluded. This gave only a small portion of the student body representation in the intramural sports program. Since the establishment of the intramural department, however, all men are given the privilege to participate in intramural athletics, excluding only those men competing in varsity competition.

When the intramural department began its activities in 1928 it inagurated speedball, a new sport to the West Virginia students, but one which proved popular. In that first year twelve sports were conducted, they were: speedball, tennis, cross-country, wrestling, boxing, indoor track, outdoor track, basketball, foul throwing, playground ball, horseshoes, and bowling. With each succeeding year the intramural program has been advanced, until now a very complete program is before the students.

HARRY L. SAMUELS

ATHLETICS

SUMMARY OF THE YEAR

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS for the 1934-35 season has been successful as the different teams swing into the last part of the program — the spring events. Of the twelve events sponsored by the department during a year ten of these have already been run off.

When school opened last fall the first event of the program was that of speedball. Speedball it seems is the most popular sport of the intramural card. Although it was introduced only six years ago it has grown in popularity until last year the number of men participating was 456. Foul throwing was speedball's nearest competitor with 325 men participating.

Speedball was a most trying sport on individual men. After practicing for several weeks all men competiting were started in one meet. The winner of last year, Phi Sigma Kappa, came through again this year holding the upper hand.

As winter came on the intramural participants moved indoors to begin the handball playoffs. It seems as if the Phi Alpha fraternity holds a first option on first place in this sport since they have won for the past six years.

Kappa Sigma sportsmen repeated with another championship when they won the volleyball championship. By winning this tournament they put another 100 points on an already high all-year rating.

The king of winter events on the program, that of basketball, found competition keen in every league. When the playoffs came Phi Sigma Kappa, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Pi Lambda Phi, and Delta Tau Delta teams filled the bracket positions. The two teams meeting in the finals were the Betas and Phi Sigs and after a hard game the Phi Sigs came out holding the upper hand.

Foul throwing was next on the program, the sport with the second highest number of men represented. Pi Kappa Alpha ran the gauntlet and won the championship.

The Sigma Nus won their first championship of the year when they beat out all participants for the bowling cup.

Another trying sport on individual men, that of indoor track found many participants. Kappa Sigma won their third victory to date by beating all competitors.

The Sigma Nu relay team after practicing diligently to win the cup beat all other relay teams for the championship, thus winning their second championship of the year.

When the University opened last fall the first event of the season was that of tennis. The Phi Delta Theta team won the championship in it.

With only two more events left on the card Kappa Sigma holds the lead for the all-year championship or A. G. Spalding trophy with 667 points. Phi Sigma Kappa is second with 642, Phi Delta Theta is third with 582 and Pi Lambda Phi is fourth with 551 points.

WOMENS ATHLETICS

MISS GRIFFIN

BEFORE 1921 women had no highly organized physical education department. Sophie Brunhoff was one of the first instructors in women's athletics in 1921-23. Then Miss Grace Griffin came to West Virginia and began to develop women's athletics.

In 1926 plans were laid for Elizabeth Moore Hall, a building to be used by women only. It was named for the woman who was a pioneer in Education in West Virginia.

At present there is only one division in athletics and the director of this is Dr. Carl P. Schott. Miss Griffin, swimming; Miss Beatrice Hurst, folk dancing, clogging and archery; Miss Beatrice Thomas, team sports; and Miss Ruth Riley, natural dancing.

The aim of this school is to teach activities that the student is most interested in and one that can be carried on. Two days of regular activity and one day of free sports a week is now in use. This includes individual sports, highly organized sports, dancing, swimming, and tennis.

Activities are so planned as to be held in season. In the fall there is volley ball, hockey, soccer, speed ball, games, dancing, and swimming. In the spring there is clogging, baseball, dancing, swimming, tumbling, games, track and field, and archery.

In the recently organized intramural league Alpha Delta Pi won the horseshoe tournament; volley ball was won by Wesley House; Kappa Kappa Gamma won the badminton and swimming meets, and Woman's Hall won the basketball tournament. Other sports to follow are pingpong, track, baseball, bowling, and archery.

DANCING

The dancing division of the department includes, along with the instruction in natural dancing, two highly organized dance groups — Senior Orchesis and Junior Orchesis.

Senior Orchesis is a group of fifteen women who are interested in natural dancing, and who have developed sufficient skill to engage in program work. It was from the original numbers composed by the members that the program for guest night and a part of May Day were selected.

Junior Orchesis is a training class for women who wish to try out for Senior Orchesis.

ADMINISTRATION

ROBERT ALLEN ARMSTRONG

PRESIDENT

PRESIDENT ARMSTRONG, an able scholar, inspiring teacher, sympathetic friend, kindly gentleman has long been a Mountaineer.

He began his early teaching in the rural schools of West Virginia and has been a lifelong leader of light and learning in his Alma Mater, West Virginia. He has been a leader of Mountaineers seeking mental, spiritual and moral advancement.

His service to West Virginia as an educator, editor and author are well known. Some readers of the Monticola, however, may not know that he published the first daily newspaper in Harrison county, and that for seventeen years he edited the West Virginia School Journal. He was once principal of West Liberty State Normal school and for two years vice president of the University.

He has been a teacher of English and department head under eleven of the thirteen University presidents and has been affectionately known as "Bobby" Armstrong. His dominant interest in life has been the teaching of youth.

As chaplain of the University, interpreter of the Scriptures and exemplar of its principles, his influence for good has been immeasurable.

FRATERNITIES

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

THE INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL, patterned somewhat after a city council, with each of the sixteen representatives representing his own district — the fraternity, meets every other Sunday with the purpose of fostering diplomatic relationships between each fraternity on the campus.

The purpose of the council is to make better the relationships which exist between the fraternities; to provide leadership and good judgment; to act as a general fraternity social committee, and to supervise one interfraternity sport — usually a baseball tournament.

This body acts in the capacity of supervisor in regulating fraternity rushing and pledging activities and acts as the medium of expression for each fraternal group in their contacts with each other. Regular meetings of the council are held progressively at the different fraternity houses.

The most important social function that the council supervises is the annual Men's Pan-Hellenic dance, generally regarded as one of the largest dances of the college year.

OFFICERS

Ernest Roberts, Sigma Phi Epsilon, is president of the Interfraternity council. Carl B. Hall, Kappa Sigma, vice president: Shelton Haynes, Phi Kappa Sigma, secretary and Hugh McPhail, Pi Kappa Alpha is treasurer.

REPRESENTATIVES

Joseph Smith, Sigma Nu; S. F. Smith, Tau Kappa Epsilon; George Bailey, Theta Chi; Foster Hedges, Phi Sigma Kappa; Robert Harper, Pi Kappa Phi; Herschel Rose, Phi Kappa Psi; James Grace, Phi Delta Theta; William Poland, Sigma Chi; William Kell, Kappa Alpha; Leland Devore, Delta Tau Delta; James Bibby, Beta Theta Pi; Dwight Cruikshank, Phi Kappa Tau.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

ENDEAVORING to keep the eleven sororities in harmony and working together in times other than rushing periods, Woman's Pan Hellenic council has a large place in the University's campus. The council is composed of sorority representatives from each of the groups, who gather together to bind what Greek distinctions have separated. Here disputes are arbitrated, problems of general sorority interest discussed, rushing and house rules formulated, and penalties for infractions tactfully handed out.

This year the council has accomplished a great deal by making rushing rules less complicated and have sought to clarify them by specifying penalties for violation of rules. They have, for the first time, had special bid days, thus eliminating sources of expense to the various sororities and having an uniform time for special bids.

For this first time in the history of the group they have had a Pan Hellenic council formal dinner, and during the year several of the sororities have entertained the group. The formal dance was preceded by formal buffet suppers in the various chapter houses. The plans for spring include a Pan Hellenic luncheon for all active sorority women at which time a national officer will speak, and the scholarship cups will be awarded to the active chapter making the highest grades and to the pledge group that maintained the highest scholarship averages.

Kathleen Berthy reigned as "Mistress" of the first annual intersorority sing. This sing was held under the same rules as those followed by the fraternities in their interfraternity sing. It was held during "Greater West Virginia Week" in May. The winner of the sing was awarded a cup, which if won three times in succession, will be in that group's permanent possession.

An executive council has been inaugurated this year, which has increased the efficiency of the council and done away with numerous extra meetings. The constitution has been revised and will be ready for the use of the group next fall. This will do away with many disputes and disagreeable entanglements. A new officer has been added to the group, that of historian and reporter.

Sigma Delta Tau, formerly Sigma Sigma, local sorority, has been added to the council's membership. The loan fund has been increased from $100 to $200 issued to deserving and needy women on the campus.

Honorary Organizations

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

CHARLES R. SLEETH

CHARLES R. SLEETH was the University student selected for Rhodes Scholarship from this district in 1933. He went to Oxford in October 1934 and is specializing in German and the Germanic languages.

Appointments for this honor are made for two years in the first instance, but a third year may be awarded to Scholars who have made an outstanding record during their first two years and who present an approved programme of worth while study for the third year. The stipend of a Rhodes scholarship is fixed at 400 pounds a year.

To be eligible for this honor the candidate must have passed his nineteenth and not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday and by the first of October of the year for which he is elected he must have completed at least his sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States.

Thirty two scholarships are assigned annually, with the States of the Union grouped into eight districts of six States each. There is a competition every year in every State and a Committee of Selection nominates the candidates to appear to the District Committee. Each District Committee then selects from the 12 candidates, so nominated, not more than four men who will represent their States as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford.

West Virginia appears in group Number Two of which New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and District of Columbia also belong.

Mr. Sleeth and other scholars are selected for their literary and scholastic ability and attainments; qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindliness, unselfishness and fellowship; exhibition of moral force or character, physical vigour.

He may read for the Oxford B. A. in any of the Final Honour schools, may enter for one of the so-called Diploma Courses in special subjects or if qualified by previous training, may be admitted to read for Advanced Degrees such as the B. Sc., B. Litt., B. C. L., or D. Phil.

PHI BETA KAPPA

ALPHA CHAPTER OF WEST VIRGINIA FOUNDED 1910

THE SOCIETY was founded December 5, 1776 at William and Mary College at Williamsburg, Va. It was the first "Greek-letter" society and in its initial period of four years it formulated the essential characteristics of such societies.

The medal adopted at the first meeting was a square of silver, engraved on one side with SP, the initials of the Latin motto, Societas Philosophiae, and on the other with P B K, the initials of the Greek motto, "Love of wisdom the helmsman of life." The index pointing to the three stars indicated the ambition of the members and symbolized the three distinguishing principles of the early society — Friendship, Morality, and Literature. The stem came to be attached to the medal probably for the practical purpose of winding watches.

West Virginia University student members are: William Victor Ross, Chalmers Addison Peairs, Julia Mayfield, Mary Louise Woodhull, Harry Mamin, Ralph M. White, Robert L. Merricks, Jules I. Klein, Guy Otto Farmer, Samuel Friend Clark, Robert B. Scott, William Richard Downs, David F. Cope, Charles K. Sleeth, Mary Hale Stalnaker, Patrick Mullen Connell, Charles Wise, John Byron Conn, Harry V. Ashburn, Howard G. Ashburn and Rudolph E. Hagberg.

SPHINX

THE EARLY HISTORY of Sphinx is found to be somewhat hazy. Around a quarter of a century ago men student leaders founded what was to become in later years, the most active group on the campus. It is believed that the group was founded as a senior men's honorary. The exact activities of the group during the early years cannot be definitely determined, but it is thought that the term "honorary" was interpreted literally and the membership was bestowed upon a student leader, after he had distinguished himself in some campus activity. If this was not the idea originally, it became such in succeeding years. About the only activity participated in by Sphinx, until some five years ago, was the annual Sphinx dance, a highlight of the yearly social calendar.

In later years Sphinx men were not want to sit idly by after having such an honor bestowed upon them; being active is being alive, seemed to them to be a desirable maxim to adopt. Therefore, about five years ago we find the group undergoing a radical change. The organization no longer would give the student leaders membership as an honor, but would build student leaders by making its membership a case of organized campus activity. The results of this move have caused the Sphinx to be asked by Dean of Men Harry E. Stone to conduct the Freshman Week program. The initial attempt at this was so successful that Sphinx was delegated the duty of conducting the entire week alone. After freshmen are enrolled and begin attending classes the Dean of Men has arranged a series of guidance meetings for their benefit. The programs for these meetings and the holding of them are planned by the Dean and Sphinx jointly. During the fall of each year, Sphinx plans a homecoming program during the football season. For this event the organization sponsors a parade and the decoration of all fraternity and sorority houses. Last spring Sphinx introduced the first inter-fraternity sing to be held on the campus. This sing came as the climax of the annual Link Day ceremonies and aroused comment of a favorite nature to the extent that it will easily establish itself as one of the most beautiful of Sphinx traditions.

This year Sphinx has busied itself by laying foundations for a new system of orienting the incoming freshmen. The old system of the vigilence committees and paddles having proven itself fruitless, a new plan has been devised, based on a more constructive policy of aiding the freshmen in solving problems by acclimating themselves to their new surroundings and having them join in campus activity.

Through the above projects Sphinx has carved for itself the distinction of being the most active group on the campus. The organization adopts as its aims: sponsoring and maintaining campus traditions and fostering the well being and interest of freshmen.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

IN ORDER to stimulate interest in the various divisions of the College of Agriculture for women the Home Economics club was organized eight years ago to develop leadership and cooperation within the groups. Speakers of different phases have been obtained for the meetings which are held once each month either at Moore or Oglebay halls. These speakers give the members a direct application of their major subjects with the advantages and disadvantages of each.

Any student majoring in Home Economics is eligible for membership in the club and each year before the official opening of the organization, the officers plan and conduct a membership campaign with a representative from each of the four classes to assist. The representative who obtains the greatest number of members receives a gift at the first meeting, which is always a party in honor of Freshman students. The cabinet of the club is the hostess for this meeting while the following meetings are conducted by the various members.

The largest project each year is the serving and entertaining of guests during "Farm and Home Week." The yearly program also includes a charity meeting at which time sewing for the Red Cross is done.

The West Virginia University Orchestra

KENNETH WOOD, Conductor

THE UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA was organized seven years ago by Kenneth Wood, the conductor at the present time. It has appeared in concerts in Charleston, Fairmont, Uniontown, Pa., Waynesburg, Pa., and Connellsville, Pa.

Three concerts were presented this year with assisting vocal and instrumental soloists. The orchestra will play for the annual May Day Fete and for for the Commencement exercises.

Weekly rehearsals are held periodically and the best symphonic literature is studied and performed.

PRESS CLUB

PRESS CLUB is the National and all inclusive organization within the Journalism department. Professional separate groups are the Journaliers, men's honorary and Matrix, women's honorary.

The Press Club has four functions: first, as a journalism scout, whereby it seeks all those students interested in the profession; second, as a financial agent by which it raises money by means of the Varsity Vaudeville to play hosts to the West Virginia State Journalism Conference in the fall of the year; its third function is that of a friendship maker in which the members are made acquainted with editors and the yearly trip to inspect one of the Pittsburgh plants to meet editors; its last function is that of a profession promoter in which it attempts to encourage all students in journalism to seek an education from a School of Journalism prior to their entering the work.

Journaliers was organized March 31, 1927, with the objective to unite men who are training themselves for Journalistic practice. They aim to set up a still better standard for the future. It has been the custom of this group to assist in publishing the Student Directory, and to edit one issue of the Athenaeum.

Matrix, honorary professional organization for women, was founded October 28, 1924. Each year Matrix publishes an issue of the Athenaeum and last year the group edited in connection with Vocational Guidance Week, a booklet entitled, "Careers for Women." Matrix, also, for the first time in history, published the 1934-35 Freshman Handbook.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA

THE DATE of conception of Alpha Epsilon Delta was April 28, 1925; when, according to an old historian's book, fifteen leading pre-medical students, under the leadership of Dr. Jack P. Montgomery, met in Toumey Hall at the University of Alabama, to discuss the writing of a constitution.

Since 1926, chapters have been installed at Howard College, Birmingham, Alabama; University of South Carolina; University of Texas; Baylor University; University of Florida; University of Georgia; West Virginia University and Alabama Polytechnical Institute.

As a result of much work on the part of a few students and of the zealous efforts of Dr. A. L. Darby, Epsilon Alpha chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta was established at West Virginia University, May 30, 1931.

The fraternity attempts to incorporate the motives and ideals of the pre-medical students and to anticipate in a degree the nature of medical activities. It provides a goal toward which pre-medical students may work and it serves as recognition for work well done.

Young Women's Christian Association

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION holds weekly meetings every Wednesday evening in Moore Hall. They usually open with a program held by one of the different groups within the organization.

Predominate among the activities this year was the social work done at Scott's Run, carried on under the direction of Selma Klein, chairman of the Social Service group. The children were taught how to play and do useful things. A piano teacher was sent to the district each week to teach the children music. This was perhaps the greatest social work of its kind done by any group on the campus.

Each year before Christmas the Y maintains a gift shop consisting of small gifts and novelties that are purchased for presents by the students. The shop this past year was under the management of Edna Duval.

In the spring the Y held its annual Mardi Gras, a gala affair of fun and gaiety. It was held in the Armory with booths maintained by the different sororities, and the center floor space was roped off for dancing. Selma Klein was in charge.

At the Middle Atlantic Regional conference held at Eaglesmere, Pa., this past summer, a Student Christian movement was passed whereby the Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., various church societies and student volunteers were united in fostering one religious ideal. In order to stimulate more thought and work along this line the S. C. M. sent various well known representatives to this region. In December of 1934, Dr. T. Z. Koo, of China, presented a series of two lectures in a seminar held at the University by the local Y. Five educational institutions of West Virginia participated — Fairmont State Teacher's college, Alderson-Broaddus college, Salem college, West Virginia Wesleyan college and the University.

In March Kirby Page spoke concerning the same movement. This seminar was held in Fairmont and several members of the University Y. W. C. A. attended. Several other seminars were held in the district under the leadership of well known men. The Bethany conference held at Bethany college also had representatives from the University.

Those members who attended the Eaglesmere conference were: Margaret E. Wilbourn, past president; Julia Eckert; Jane Hesse; Sylvia Finn and Esther Danenberg.

KAPPA PHI

METHODIST EPISCOPAL GIRLS' CLUB
FOUNDED IN 1916 AT THE UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS
PI CHAPTER, WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY, ESTABLISHED 1926

AS ONE OF twenty-four chapters of Kappa Phi, National Methodist Episcopal Girls' club, Pi chapter for nine years has been an active group on the campus. Taking as its aim, "Every Methodist girl in the university world today a leader in the church tomorrow," the club seeks to provide active religious training for its membership. Meetings are held bi-monthly so that a broad training may be provided for those who participate, thereby engendering the spirit of leadership. Included in the programs besides the general worship is study of literature, music and drama. Frequent social meetings fill out the year's program.

ORGANIZATION

THE STUDENT Christian Union at West Virginia University was organized in the fall of 1932. It is composed of the students of the various religious denominations — Baptist, Episcopalian, Lutheran, Methodist, Methodist Protestant and Presbyterian. The Council of the Union is made up of the Minister and one student of each denomination.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Union, is to establish closer Christian fellowship, to offer an opportunity for the exchange of religious ideas, and to make possible a better integration of religion and education, and in general to make a religious impact on the campus.

Women's Athletic Association

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION is composed of those women who are interested mainly in athletics. It is governed by a council consisting of Jane Hesse, president; Gwendolyn Hardman, vice president; Mary Jane Baker, treasurer; Barbara Powell, secretary. Jean Sharp as intramural manager heads the group of individual managers composed of: Julia Finlay, swimming manager; Elizabeth Marshall,. basket ball; Pat Handley, volley ball; Virginia Crowell, hiking; Júlia Eckert, baseball, and Merle Ewing, tennis.

Each fall the W. A. A. sponsors a play day for incoming freshmen women which is held during Freshman Week. It also sponsors a play day with the University of Pittsburgh and in the spring, Pitt returns the compliment to the University women.

In the spring the association selects the May Queen, her court and the Maypole dancers who participate in the annual May Day. A dance drama is held at this time in conjunction with Orchesis and the University orchestra.

The planned program for the year is made of Intramurals in which all organizations for women on the campus participate. This includes tournaments of horseshoes, volley ball, basketball, swimming, bowling, basball, track and field, and badminton, progressive throughout the year.

Among the special events in which W. A. A. sponsors are: the Telegraphic Intercollegiate swimming meet held by the Dolphin Club, steak roasts and hikes, and skating parties.

TAU BETA PI

TAU BETA PI was founded at Lehigh University in 1855. It is the oldest of the honorary engineering societies. The purpose of the organization is: "To mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship as under-greduates or by their attainments as alumni."

West Virginia Alpha Chapter of Tau Beta Pi was installed in 1922 through the petition of the local Theta Psi.

Tau Beta Pi is the only honorary engineering society at West Virginia University to whose membership all male engineering students are eligible.

THE OBJECT of this organization, composed of Junior and Senior electrical engineering students, is to enable students to present technical papers before an audience, each studnet being required to present, during the entire year, four speeches of a technical nature.

This group has been the current leader of the engineering school this year. They were the group that constructed "Oscar", th mechanical man, the brains of Oscar being Bernard Conner. They were also responsible for the Engineer's ball held March 16.

The group is a student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers of which the students may become members after they have obtained their bachelor of science degree.

Mountaineer Week Team

RICHARD ASPINALL

THE Mountaineer Week Team, consisting of thirteen University men, tour the high schools of West Virginia every year. These men are selected and coached by Dr. Richard Aspinall, director of the university extension.

"The purpose of this group is to reflect college life to high school students," states Dr. Aspinall. "We are telling high school students what we have at West Virginia University."

The members of this team were selected on a basis of speaking ability, campus activities, and manner of presentation.

Members of the team and areas in which they spoke are: Howard C. Shaffer, Wheeling; Arthur O. Swisher, Parkersburg; David K. Tucker, Eastern Panhandle: Benny Thomas, Fairmont; Alfred E. Stewart, Clarksburg; James H. Heinze, Point Pleasant, George H. Healey, Huntington; Charles C. Wise, Jr., Charleston; William L. Kell, Bluefield; John R. Morris, White Sulphur area; and Denny Scott, Moorefield.

John O. Kizer, in addition to managing the team this year, assisted in the Charleston area. Others who assisted were Leland S. Devore, Wheeling area; Raymond E. Michael, Fairmont area; and Domick Gaudino, White Sulphur area. Gaudino also spoke at Richwood High School.

Swisher, Scott, Morris, Stewart, Kizer, and Tucker were members of last year's team.

LI-TOON-AWA

IN ORDER to help freshmen women of West Virginia University adapt themselves to university life and to stand ready in any way possible, Li-toon-awa, which in Indian means friendship, was founded in 1927.

The group never exceeds fifteen in number and chooses its membership from those outstanding freshmen women with respect to personal character, personality, scholarship, extra curricular activities, and leadership ability. The members are pledged during the annual Link Day ceremonies held on the Circle in May. Initiation is held at a later date.

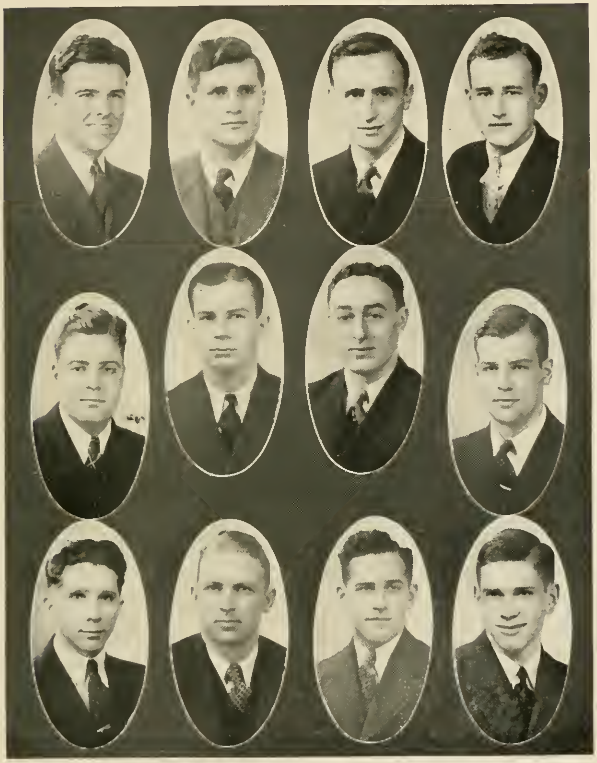
ALPHA ZETA

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL HONORARY



ALPHA ZETA fraternity was founded at Ohio State University in 1897. It is the oldest and best known agriculture honorary fraternity in the country. West Virginia chapter was chartered in 1922, and since that time has been the only honorary fraternity in agriculture on the campus. There are now forty-one chapter located at forty-one land grant colleges in the United States.

Alpha Zeta has as its purpose, the development of the farm and the farm home, particularly in the state where a chapter is located, through an organization controlled by agricultural students. It is advised by an agricultural faculty, and stimulated by the bonds of fraternity around a membership chosen after an earnest agricultural motive and an executive ability have been demonstrated.

In considering any candidate for membership, consideration is given to scholarship, leadership, and character.

DELTA NU TAU

DELTA NU TAU was organized in 1932 as a local honorary fraternity by several pre-legal students, and Delta Nu Tau promises shortly to become the central orbit of a National Pre-Legal organization. Early in the fall of 1924 Louis Corson and Roy Samms were appointed by the President to contact leading colleges and Universities throughout the United States to determine whether or not they would be interested in a National Pre-Legal honorary and the results were so encouraging, that plans are almost complete for transforming Delta Nu Tau local into Delta Nu Tau, National.

During the year the fraternity decided to sponsor an annual award, to be given to the Freshman pre-legal student with the highest scholarship rating.

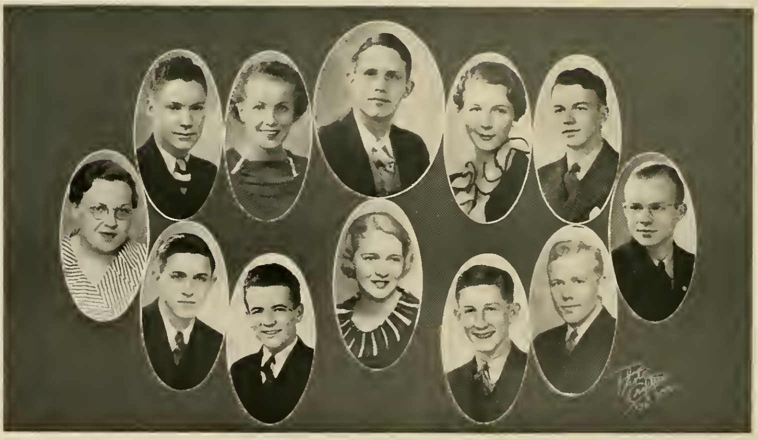
PUBLICATIONS

MONTICOLA STAFF

THE PUBLICATION of a college annual is no easy job. It takes work and more work with the midnite oil a big item on the expense account and inter-staff fights a daily feature. The completed book bears testimony to the fact that good work has been done, but it is only fitting that some mention be made of the men and women who have done it.

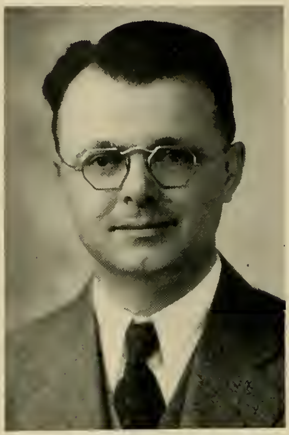
P. I. REED
Advisor



G. Thomas Bartlett, editor-in-chief and coordinator extraordinary, deserves the spotlight first for his executive ability and peace-making efforts throughout the year. He was ably assisted and abetted by Marsh Gwynn, managing editor, who had the original headache of drafting the form of the book. The responsibility of goading tardy authors and making some sense out of a mountain of copy fell upon William C. A. Gadd and his assistants: Esther Danenberg, feature editor; Herb Welsh, snapshot editor; Jim Flenniken and Tom Stafford, sports editors; Anna Neale Hardman, organizations; Frank Neil, art editor; and Bob McKinley.

In order to be successful, an annual must have a hustling business staff to keep things moving. Thomas (Deadeye) Currie, business manager, showed his ability by inaugurating several financial innovations and expanding the advertising appeal of the publication. Jerry Smith, assistant manager; Boner Ezell, advertising manager, and Evelene Miller, circulation manager, headed the various supporting departments, while the assistants who had the big job of making contacts and collections were: Mildred Fisher, William Tierney, and Bernard Gottlieb.

THE DAILY ATHENAEUM



GEORGE RINEHART

IN SEPTEMBER 1887 the first copy of the Athenaeum was published with U. S. Grant Pitzer as the first editor. It was planned to put out an issue every two weeks and the printing was done by Julian Fleming, proprietor of the New Dominion Steam Printing House.

In order to "promote the literary taste of the students; to narrate college events; to keep alumni interested in their alma mater, and to express the life growth and attainments of the University," C. W. Waddell and A. W. Smith took over the editorship in 1899, publishing the paper every first and third Saturday of each month.

With the issue of September 1901, the Athenaeum was changed into a weekly paper, "devoted chiefly to the local news of the University and personal items about its students, friends and teachers." The paper became a semi-weekly publication in 1921, appearing every Tuesday and Friday, and in 1923 it appeared as a tri-weekly publication, coming out every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

In March 1926 at a mass meeting, the student body voted in favor of an increase in fees to cover the cost of publishing the paper five times a week, but it was not until 1933 that the Daily Athenaeum was an actuality. It now appears in tabloid form every morning except Sunday and Monday.

The first editor-in-chief of the Daily was Harry J. Marker; Robert Shaffer was managing editor and William Smith, business manager.

THE STUDENT DIRECTORY

IN 1920 the first issue of the Directory was published, and it has been issued annually since that date, this year's publication being the fifteenth consecutive issue.

The Student Directory contains the name, local address and telephone number, home address, and classification of every student in the University, as well as the name, address, telephone number and department of each member of the faculty.

Also there is listed such additional information as fraternity and sorority address and telephone numbers, fraternity and sorority presidents, a list of campus leaders, a list of honorary organizations and fraternities, and the University and social calendars. The information is compiled with the assistance and co-operation of the staff of the office of the Registrar.

The Directory was published this year by John L. Abbott, '37. It is under the general supervision of an advisory committee composed of Dean of Men, Harry E. Stone and Prof. George P. Boomsliter.

Marsh Gwynn, circulation manager, engineered the sale of more than 800 copies before the Directory went to press through a plan securing contracts for large orders from various social organizations.

A portion of the profit earned by the Directory has been turned over to the University Revolving Student Loan Fund.

DRAMATICS

DEBATING

DEBATING is often dull, academic, and "canned" in America. None of these characteristics apply to forensic tilts as practiced in the British Isles.

English debates are popular because they are arranged for the entertainment and education of the audience. The speakers are clever and witty. More emphasis is placed on extemporaneous expression than on platitudinous quotations from experts in economics, politics and government. An English debater is usually quite versatile and is never limited by a memorized speech nor confined to notes. Many persons in the audience participate in the debates, and not infrequently a better idea is expressed by a speaker from the floor than by the principle debaters. An English forensic encounter is often so enjoyable, the speeches so entertaining and animated, that no one shows any appreciable boredom after two or three hours of it.

Subjects which lend themselves to witty and original discourse are chosen for discussion there. Such motions as the following are debated: "Resolved, that this house acquires its culture from Hollywood;" "Resolved, that the only effective answer to any argument is 'Bah';" and, "Resolved, that one should Marry, Peace it Bodes, Love and Quiet Life." More serious questions are debated, also, but always are discussed in a popular rather than pedantic style.

An audience of English students is very attentive and responds sensitively to the speaker. If he is good his speech will be punctuated with much applause. However, if he is unsatisfactory the audience will quickly inform him of the fact. He can expect continual heckling and a complete "walk-out" is not uncommon.

An American debater is always warmly received. His appearance, accent and mannerisms will win him support regardless of his qualifications as a polished speaker. The visitor is shown remarkable kindness and hospitality and gains a wealth of experience and a knowledge of British students and culture which is almost impossible to gather in any other way. Both England and America seem to profit from this international exchange of good will.

DELTA SIGMA RHO

DELTA SIGMA RHO, honorary forensic fraternity was established at the University 1923 with Prof. Wilbur Jones Kay, who had acted as sponsor for the group at W. & J. in 1917, as sponsor for the local chapter. Its membership is limited to those members of the upper classes who have represented the university in debate or oratorical contests. Its policy is to establish no more than two chapters in any state — one in the strongest university and the other in the strongest small college.

WILBUR JONES KAY

Wilbur Jones Kay, A. M., head of the department of Public Speaking, came to his present position in September 1919. Prior to this time he taught at Swarthmore college and for 16 years was John H. Wallace Professor of Public Speaking at W. & J. While holding these positions he also taught at Meadville Theological school, Allegheny Theological school, Crozier Theological seminary, and coached teams of the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Institute of Banking. He is a charter member of the Eastern Public Speaking association founded in 1910 and of the National association of Teachers of Public Speaking.

"A Busy Weak-End!"

"What are you thinking about, Jack?"
"The same thing you are, Jane."
"If you do I'll scream."

—Exchange

A TOAST

Here's to the happy days; any damn fool can have a good time at night.

—Yellow Jacket

Curious Old Lady: "Why you've lost your leg, haven't you?"

Cripple: "Well, damned if I haven't."

—Kitty Kat

"Now if you are a good little boy ma will take you to see Mickey Mouse."

"Aw heck, then I'll miss seeing grandma and her boy friend come in drunk."

GREENS FROM OTHER PASTURES

She: "Do you know what good clean fun is?"

He: "I'll bite — what good is it?"

—Alabama Rammer-Jammer

She: "Don't you love me any more?"

He: "Sure I do."

She: "But I haven't had to slap your face for a week!"

—Sundial

Co-ed: I thought you said your roommate was a civil engineer?

Stude: That's right.

Co-ed: Well, he didn't act like it last night.

—Voo-Doo

"Watcha studyin?"
"Soc'ology."
"Hard?"
"N'vry."
"How many cuts y' 'lowed?"
"Never calls za roll."
"Outside readin' and writin'?"
"Nope."
"Called on often?"
"Once a week."
"Thought there was string to it."

—Cornell Widow

Prof.

Ed: "If I kissed you, would you call your old man?" Co-ed: "Do you want to kiss him too?"

Prof. Williams (at registration) — Are you a pre-legal student?

Freddie the Frosh — Hell no, I'm the youngest child in the family!

Oscar will talk turkey to any gal. She doesn't have to come from Constantinople.

I just happened to think: If they would put the beans in the can upside down at the baked bean factory, would it cause people to have hiccups?

Customer: Have you any wild turkey?

Waiter: No, but I can take a tame one out and irritate him for you.

Guy: You are crazy about me, aren't you?

Gal: I would have to be.

SUM MORALS

The only time a lot of gals I know will lift a finger is when some guy wants to put a ring on it.

If someone or other goes around trying to listen to what the little birds are saying, they are apt to get an earful.

"My uncle is up for horse rustling."

"Aren't you going to do anything about it?"

"Yeah, I'm going to cut the rope and bury him."

—Punch Bowl

He: I think there is something dovelike about you.

She: Oh, really?

He: Yes; you are pigeon-toed.

"Will I be able to play the piano when my hands heal?" asked the wounded soldier.

"Certainly you will," answered the doctor.

"Gee, that's great!" the soldier exclaimed. "I never could before."

Senior (explaining the automobile to his girl): This controls the brake. It is put on quickly in case of an emergency.

His Girl: Oh, yes, I see. Something like a kimono, isn't it?

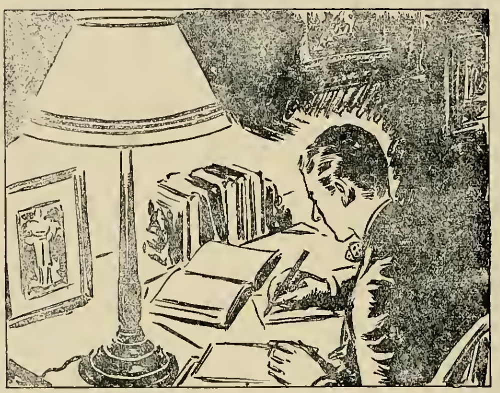
You don't have to burn "midnight oil" to appreciate the new

I. E. S.
Better Sight Lamp

The dominating purpose back of this lamp design was to make study or reading easier and less tiring. To achieve this eye specialists and lighting engineers created the specifications. You may select your lamp from a number of attractive models in either table or floor types, each carrying an I. E. S. certification tag.

Prices begin at $5.25



Approved better sight lamps are higher than ordinary lamps so that light will be distributed widely. Shades are specially treated to reflect the most light without glare. Under the shades are opal glass reflectors which soften the light and reflect some upward to dispel irritating contrasts.

The PHOTO-PRINT Way is the Better Way

We know that, because we have traveled the trail of experience for over 30 years and have printed almost everything under the sun. You will know it, too, once you have tried this new, economical process, exclusive with us in West Virginia.

What would it mean to you, Mr. Manufacturer, to produce artistic catalogues, brochures, circulars, etc., without the expense of a single engraving? We are doing this daily for surprised and delighted customers, and we will do the same for you, gladly.

PROGRESS

There are few fields where the necessity for progress—the demand for new ideas, is as pronounced as in the production of School Annuals. ☼ Here in Canton we take pride in not only keeping pace, but in setting the pace for innovations and changes in this highly progressive field. ☼ When you work with Canton you are hand in hand with experienced people, constantly on the alert to sense the wants of Annual publishers, and quick to change from the old order, and offer new and unusual ideas to progressive editors.

Genuine Diesel Engines

"Caterpillar" Diesel Powered Tractors, Auto Patrols and "Caterpillar" Diesel Power Units are real Diesels and must not be confused with Semi-Diesel, Near-Diesels or the many so-called oil burners. The record of fuel economy and low up-keep of "Caterpillar" Diesel Tractors has been so firmly established as to leave no doubt in the minds of contractors and industrial plants which tractor to buy. We carry a large and complete stock for all "Caterpillar" machines and maintain an up-to-date service department.

WHAT A TIRE AND WHAT A TUBE!

New Life-Saver Golden Ply Tire and Gold and Black Tube give motorists more miles and more safety

This Tire and This Tube

Never before in our experience has there been a tire and tube like this. The Goodrich Safety Silvertown Tire with the Life-Saver Golden Ply gives motorists today extra protection against blowouts at high speeds. This remarkable invention resists heat—the great unseen cause of blowouts. And now we have the new Goodrich Gold and Black Tube which is specially built for today's hard, fast driving. Under the most grueling tests, even when run flat, this tube did not rip or tear. Our recommendation for carefree, trouble-free summer driving is to equip your car now with Goodrich Safety Silvertown Tires and Gold and Black Tubes. Come in and let us show you this great tire and tube.
